ALLIED ARMY FLEEING FROM FLANDERS WHILE FLEET IS ROARING PROTECTION

FLANDERS ARMIES DESTROYED GERMAN REPORTS DECLARE

NAZI PLANES SINKING NUMEROUS TRANSPORTS AND ALLIED WARSHIPS

BERLIN, May 30.—(AP)—British and French armies in the Flanders-Artois trap have been destroyed, the German high command announced today, and the German air force has sunk three allied warships and 16 transports trying to effect withdrawals from the pocket.

British and French troops able to reach the channel coast through the raking bombardment of the German air force and artillery were said to have plunged into the sea, trying to swim to the small British boats lying at anchor to carry them away.

These boats and protecting warships were the particular targets of the German fighter and destroyer units in the air.

More than 60 ships were said to have been hit by the rain of bombs, including the three warships and 16 transport vessels reported sunk.

Ten warships and 21 merchant ships of "all sizes" were reported "seriously damaged or fired."

The high command said the battle of Flanders and Artois is "nearing an end with destruction of the English and French armies fighting there."

Report French Surrendering.
Many French units, cut off from all hope of escape to the sea with their British comrades by the German capture of Lille, French industrial city, were reported laying down their arms.

These men, no one knew their number—were compressed in an area 12 miles square south of Lille, sliced off from the main Flanders pocket.

This smaller pocket dangled at the Lille apex of the triangular trap around the British Expeditionary force and other French units.

The British expeditionary force, caught with French troops in the Flanders-Artois trap after the Belgian surrender, is "in complete dissolution," said the high command.

Leaving "enormous" quantities of war material behind, the British are fleeing to the sea, according to the Germans.

Anti-aircraft forces from the channel shore, was credited with sinking one patrol boat and damaging 10 others including five speed boats.

FIRST TROOPS OF ALLIED ARMY EMBARK AT ENGLISH CHANNEL

GERMAN CAMPAIGN ANNIHILATION IN FLANDERS ESCAPED BY SOME

By The Associated Press.
PARIS, May 30.—(AP)—The first formations of the broken allied armies of Flanders to escape the German campaign of annihilation embarked at the English Channel today under the protecting fire of the French and British fleets.

Outnumbered almost three to one, the allied forces were leaving the tragic field of battle to fire and flood, heading out through Dunkerque—its core of blazing shellfire—to at least temporary safety.

The roaring fleet guns were but fighting a last delaying action against the Germans closing on three sides.

French military authorities estimated that 40 German infantry divisions and eight armored columns—roughly 700,000 men—were attacking 18 allied divisions, ten French and eight British, of about 270,000 men.

But the allied armies of the north, cut off from the central French forces by the German dash to the sea and deserted by their Belgian wing, were ending the struggle in what the French declared was a day of glory.

The system set up by the British and French navies was working on a shuttle basis, supplying food and moving out allied contingents by degrees.

Allied Path Out.
Across the allied path to the sea a corridor, extending 40 miles northwest from the coast of Lille to Dunkerque, the Germans thrust northwest from the region of Lille to Dunkerque, the Germans thrust one light line 12 miles southeast from Cassel.

At this line the extreme tank rearguard of General Rene Nacques Adolphe Prioux smashed in an effort to keep open the path of escape.

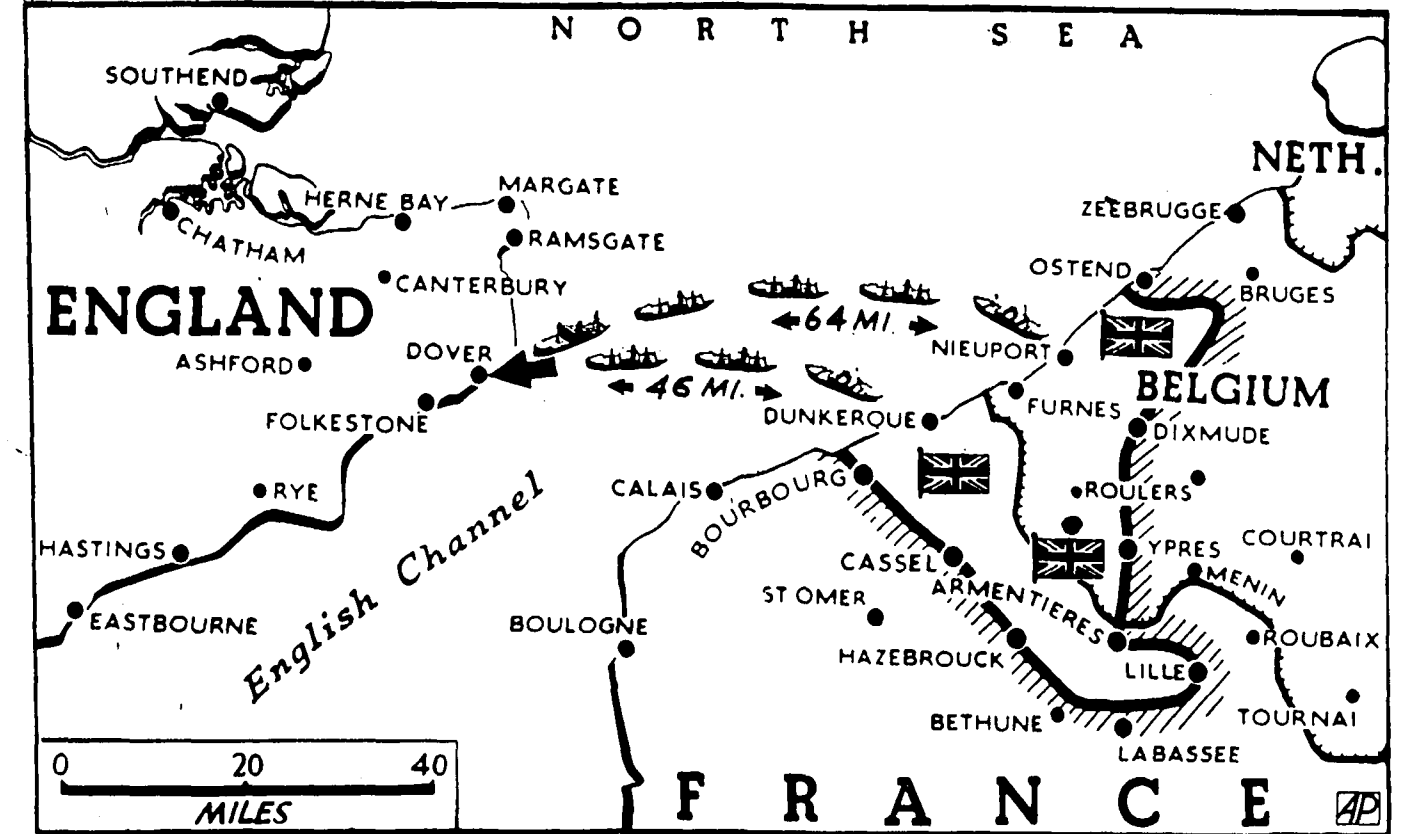

A military spokesman said the operation was progressing methodically amid violent combats on the two flanks where, with one exception at Fourny, Cassel, the German advance was being held.

The Germans were believed to be in the process of capturing the town of Cassel.

Support for new defense taxes is sweeping congress.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(AP)—A wave of support for new defense taxes swept through congress today, but arguments over the direct tax-related subjects of the federal debt limit and economy raised the possibility of indefinite delay.

NATION PAUSED TO PAY TRIBUTE DEAD AS OTHERS DYING

WAR AND FEAR OF WAR IS FOREMOST IN MINDS AMERICANS ON MEMORIAL DAY

(By The Associated Press)
Shells burst anew over veterans' cemeteries in Flanders Field today as Americans once again paid Memorial Day tribute to the unknown soldier and his thousands of fellows who died just 22 years ago in the war to end all wars.

Much of the nation paused to observe the holiday and place wreaths on graves of the dead of all wars buried at home. But war and fears of war sent President Roosevelt into conference with his new national defense commission and denied congress its usual holiday.

The President, who customarily places a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, designated his military aide, Major Horace B. Smith, to lead the nation's observance in Arlington National Cemetery. Major Smith fought in France in the world war.

Congress pored over several bills to strengthen the national defenses.

After Major Smith's visit to the tomb, veterans' organizations were to place wreaths there every two minutes until 12:25 p. m. Boy Scouts decorated the graves in Arlington National Cemetery.

Other Washington observances included a parade on constitution day for veterans organizations and patriotic groups.

The present European war brought startling developments in the war when their armies were holding sectors side by side on the Belgian border.

TWO GENERALS OF FRANCE COMPARED BY AMERICAN WRITER

A. P. CORRESPONDENT TELLS OF BLANCHARD AND CORAP, HERO AND SCAPEGOAT

(By The Associated Press)
EDITOR'S NOTE: Henry C. Cassidy, 30-year-old Bostonian of the Paris bureau of the Associated Press, covered the western front last fall at the outbreak of the war. He has been directing the allied forces and writes the following story on the basis of this knowledge.

PARIS, May 30.—(AP)—A strange twist in the fortunes of war has taken two of France's finest generals in the field and made one a hero, the other a scapegoat.

The hero is general Georges Blanchard, whose army fought a losing battle against the Germans in Flanders after King Leopold's surrender of the Belgian forces.

The scapegoat is General Andre Corap, whose army was broken by the Germans in the battle of the Meuse May 15, opening France to invasion and the German rush to the English Channel.

These two are the first of the French commanders in the field whose names have been made public here, (Berlin reports also have told of German capture of General Henri Girard).

I knew them both early in the war when their armies were holding sectors side by side on the Belgian border.

Corap was more the hero type. Bold in shape and bluff in manner, he had his headquarters in a hunting lodge in the Ardennes mountains decorated with scowling boars' heads, spreading antlers and other trophies.

WILBUR SHAW AGAIN WINS INDIANAPOLIS SPEEDWAY CLASSIC

THIRD TIME IN PAST FOUR YEARS HE HAS WON; 142,000 ATTEND

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—(AP)—Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, won the 500-mile automobile race today to the acclaim of 142,000 spectators. It was his third triumph.

Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif., was second, 2-1/2 miles behind Shaw. The race was stopped then on account of rain.

Shaw covered the distance in 4:22:31.16 to average 114.277 miles an hour.

Mauri Rose, Columbus, O., was given third position; Ted Horn, Hawthorne, N. J., fourth; Joe Thorne, Tucson, Ariz., fifth; Bob Watson, Los Angeles, sixth; Frank Weathers, Pasadena, seventh; Mel Hansen, Los Angeles, eighth; Frank Brisko, Chicago, ninth and Harry McQuinn, Indianapolis, tenth.

Nineteen of the original 33 starters remained when the red flag was hung out stopping the race. They were given the positions which they held at the time.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—(AP)—Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, clung to the lead at 400 miles of the 500-mile automobile race today, with Rex Mays, Glendale, Calif., in second place.

Shaw, seeking his third speedway triumph, was two and a half miles ahead of the Californian, with Ted Horn, Hawthorne, N. J., third, Mauri Rose, Columbus, O., fourth and Joel Thorne, Tucson, Ariz., fifth.

BRITAIN REPORTS FLANDERS ARMY IS BEING EVACUATED

FIERCE BATTLE REPORTED NOW RAGING IN CHANNEL COAST REGIONS

LONDON, May 30.—(AP)—Thousands of first arrivals from the Flanders battlefield reached England tonight in warships, transports and hospital ships— their uniforms torn and their faces grim, bearded and powder-burned.

The ships were conveyed across the English channel through a tempest of bombs and machine-gun fire.

One hospital ship was reported to have undergone a strafing while landing casualties in a French port. The funnels were sliced with bullets and the port hole glasses shattered.

The ministry of information declared that "troops not immediately engaged have been evacuated" and that "numbers of troops already have reached this country."

The battle on the French and Belgian channel coast, base of the Allied withdrawal, still raged, the information ministry said, adding that more than 70 German aircraft had been destroyed and many others damaged through the use of anti-aircraft guns.

"In view of increased German pressure on their northern and southern flanks," the ministry's announcement said, "the British Expeditionary Force and French forces in the north have been forced to fall back towards the coast where the battle is now raging."

The British and French forces in Flanders have been forced to fall back toward the channel coast, the ministry of information said, adding that "troops not immediately engaged have been evacuated" and that "numbers of troops already have reached this country."

PRESIDENT EXPECTS TO REQUEST BILLION MORE FOR DEFENSE

WOULD BE USED TO SUPPLY NEEDS OF ARMY AND NAVY REGARDED AS CRITICAL

WASHINGTON, May 30.—President Roosevelt said today that the new defense commission now was all set to go and that its job would be greater because developments in the fighting in Europe in the past fortnight have necessitated more than doubling America's defense expenditures.

In a press conference after a meeting with the defense commission, the chief executive said that he hoped to have full production of war materials under way within about six months.

He is sending a message to congress tomorrow requesting a supplementary $1,000,000,000 defense outlay, Mr. Roosevelt said, primarily because of deficiencies which have been found since his original defense program was submitted to the legislators.

The new $1,000,000,000 raises the immediate defense program to $400,000,000.

Conditions in the world have changed vastly in a short time, the President said.

He apparently was referring to the continued success of German mechanized troops and streamlined military tactics.

In the meeting with his new defense advisors, Mr. Roosevelt said he would consider the seven divisions into which the work of the seven commission members will fall.

The members were ranging to go, Mr. Roosevelt added, "I am not sure that I will be able to see him again in a few days."

The expanded defense program, the President continued, will call for more tanks, guns, fixed ammunition and much larger supplies than were contemplated previously.

War in Europe Cause.
The billiard-dollar addition was decided upon by Mr. Roosevelt.

RING OF FIRE BEING DROPPED AT FRENCH PORT OF DUNKERQUE

RETREATING ALLIES CLOSELY PURSUED BY GREAT GERMAN FORCES

By The Associated Press.
Bearded, powder-burned and exhausted, thousands of troops who escaped the German trap in Flanders and weathered a "hellish nightmare" of Nazi aerial raids on the channel crossing reached England tonight at an estimated 440,000 to 600,000 Germans tried to destroy allied troops still remaining across the Straits of Dover.

Arrival on warships, transports and hospital ships, the weary troops telling a story of horror and carnage in the retreat from the bloody plains of Flanders.

A tempest of bombs and aerial machine-gun fire swirled around the vessels as they crossed the channel.

One hospital ship reported it was strafed while loading casualties at a French port.

The British admiralty announced that three destroyers and other war vessels were lost in these operations.

Big guns of the Allied fleet dropped a ring of fire around the French "escape" port of Dunkerque today as retreating Allied troops fought off an estimated 440,000 to 600,000 German rushing to land a knockout blow the last hours of the bloody battle of Flanders.

Fierce rear-guard actions covered the flight of the main Allied columns, falling back the last 20 miles to the sea.

Under swirling attacks by Nazi dive-bombers, a shuttle service of approximately 60 vessels took off the wounded and exhausted troops.

A hospital ship arrived at a south coast English port loaded with British expeditionary forces wounded, its port hole smashed by machine-gun bullets and its funnels riddled.

Many French units, completely cut off from their British comrades in a fighting in the west, were reported lying down their arms.

The German high command declared the great battle of Flanders was fast becoming the battle of the destruction of the Allied armies there.

Hitler's dive-bombing Stukas sank 16 transports and three British ships and damaged 24 others vessels waiting to embark the fleeing Allies at channel ports, the Nazi high command said.

The British expeditionary force was being evacuated by the "cut to pieces" almost within sight of the chalk cliffs of Dover, according to the English channel.

INTEGRATED PILOT TRAINING PROGRAM IS BEING PLANNED

ARMY, CAA AND CIVIL AVIATION LEADERS TO DEVELOP 54,000 FLIERS

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(AP)—An integrated pilot training program to develop 45,000 private fliers and 9,000 advanced students for the army air corps by July 1, 1941, has been formulated by the Civil Aeronautics Authority, the army, and civil aviation leaders.

Designed in answer to President Roosevelt's implied recommendation that 50,000 civilians be trained to fly in the next year, the program, it was estimated today, will cost about $37,000,000. A final draft will go to the white house Saturday.

The civilians instructed under the program could be in addition to the pilots available to the air corps under the stepped-up training courses now under way at nine civilian schools.

Out of the 54,000 fliers included in the plan, 33,000 would receive their primary training, and 8,000 of these would go on to advanced instruction which would qualify them for the army's school at Randolph Field, Texas, if they so desired.

Flanders Battle, German Victory, Comes Terrible End At Channel Port As Allies Seek Save Army

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer
The "end of the world" has come to the drooping port of Dunkerque and the English channel.

History of warfare never before has put together such a picture of savage chaos on land and sea and in the air as has developed from the allied attempt to salvage what lives they can from the hundreds of thousands of their troops who had been trapped by the Hitlerites.

For the first time we have a major battle between the German forces of the air and the Anglo-French ships of war as the allies struggle to perform the all but impossible task of getting their broken troops embarked for withdrawal. It is the initial test of strength on a large scale between the air and sea.

Of men must be struggling in the choppy waters of the channel almost within sight of their beleaguered cliffs of Dover.

So we come to the end of the Battle of Flanders—a major German victory.

But we haven't reached the end of the blitzkrieg which the Germans say will finish the war. The Battle of Flanders is just one phase of Hitler's great gamble. So what next?

First we must note that the gallant stand made by the Allied armies of the North in Flanders has enabled the French to consolidate a line right across northern France from Abbeville on the channel eastward along the Somme river and clear to the Maginot line fortifications.

This means, by the way, that the Nazi forces have been halted in their rush a very considerable distance short of the territory which the Kaiser overran in the early days of the World war.

That line is not only for the defense of Paris, but for the far more vital purpose of preventing a disastrous break-through by the Germans in their avowed effort to crush the entire French army. The line also provides the kicking-off place for offensive operations.

Hitler now would seem to have two lines which he can pursue. He can attempt his project of invading England, now that he has won the Battle of Flanders, or he can try to smash southward to Paris and knock the French out.

In this connection the German press today is charging that Britain and France are trying to persuade Switzerland and Portugal to accept allied protection. The Nazis say the allies are making "an effort to bring more neutrals into the war."

However, we shall have to wait a bit to see, for there is no present indication of the Führer's plans.

This detonation of great bombs as they slip at the foundations of empires tends, I fear, to make us overlook the plight of civilians in the fighting zone. The speed of mechanized warfare turns peaceful centers into slaughters of slaughter without warning.

The death toll must be terrible as these helpless folk are torn by bombs and shells, and even ground beneath those monster tanks which are like creatures of frightfulness out of a nightmare. But maybe those who die quickly are the more fortunate, for the position of a host of the living is pitiable.

ITALY APPARENTLY ABOUT READY MAKE ASPIRATIONS WAR

CONDITIONS APPEAR ABOUT RIPE FOR MUSSOLINI TO GRAB POOLS

ROME, May 30.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini has summoned his cabinet for next Tuesday to discuss "important matters" and some foreign quarters believed that action might be taken then to plunge Italy into war.

The possibility that a war decision might be announced that day or shortly afterward, however, was only a matter of conjecture.

The cabinet decided on the June 4 meeting when it last met, May 1, but publication today by most newspapers of a reminder that the meeting had been arranged was considered an indication that the session would be unusually important.

WOMEN HAVE LARGE PLACE IN REVIVAL PLAN FOR COTTON

SECRETARY NATIONAL COTTON COUNCIL QUOTED BY PICKETT WOMAN

Women have a very important part in the new cotton picture, is the opinion of B. A. Stufflebome, secretary of the National Cotton Council. Stufflebome expressed this view in a talk on "The Home Demonstration Club Women's Place in the New Cotton Picture," at the spring meeting of District 4, Home Demonstration Association, held recently in Dallas, according to Mrs. D. C. Stanley of the Pickett club, who heard the talk.

Mr. Stufflebome said he was a dirt farmer, and the farmers and their families are his kind of people and he knew everyone had heard so much about the surplus cotton problem, they were tired of it, but nevertheless, in spite of all that had been said and done the surplus cotton problem was not solved. The women who are working and striving for a better standard of living must carry the torch, they must carry the word to others and help save the cotton industry.

Cotton is still the money crop in the South, you simply can't separate cotton and the South. In order to help the people of the South on their feet we must find a market for cotton.

There is a trend toward cutting off subsidy now, and the farmer must prepare in the near future to do without federal help because, Stufflebome warned, federal help is coming to an end and it might be sooner than we expect.

We have gone as far as possible in reduction for safety, he asserted. When reduction in cotton was first started, we had 12,000,000 bales of surplus cotton lying up in the warehouses and now at the end of 1939, after all the reduction we have 13,000,000 bales, so we can plainly see that reduction has not taken care of the surplus, but has increased it 1,000,000 bales. So we think the sensible thing to do is to balance the consumption with production and use our cotton right here at home.

The speaker then declared this is where the women come in. Statistics show that the people of the South do not consume enough cotton clothing and household necessities to maintain a good standard of living. On an average a family has four sheets, not to a bed, but to a house; four pairs of pillow cases; eight towels, including face, bath and kitchen towels. The men have an average of two and one-half shirts, two and one-fourth trousers, two pair pajamas, one and one-half pairs overalls, and one and one-half work shirts. The men who work and produce this cotton on an average do not have a change of clothes.

The speaker said that if we could consume this 13,000,000 bales of cotton it would raise the standard of living and put the cotton industry back on its feet. The women must wear more cotton dresses, slips, etc., and buy more cotton material with their cotton dollars and stop buying cotton substitutes, such as rayon silks. Mr. Stufflebome insisted that the people of the South must fight for the cotton market. We must do more advertising in Southern papers and magazines. He said that several Southern magazines were examined in Washington, D. C., recently. At cotton meeting and 40c worth of advertising was found for cotton, while several thousand dollars worth of advertising was found for cotton substitutes. Paper bags are also taking the place of cotton bags, he said.

The speaker declared we people of the South can't sit idly by and let cotton be replaced by other commodities, it is a matter of life and death to the South, and women can turn the trick if they put their "head, heart, hands and health" into it.

Cotton must be marketed and not given to other states. Mr. Stufflebome urged the Washington apple for illustration. Texas buys more Washington apples than any other state. We buy them by the carloads, but when we ship oleomargarine made from cottonseed oil there they stop it at the border and put a 15 cents a pound tax on it. Therefore we don't sell a pound in Washington because no one wants to pay more than its worth.

The speaker pointed out that we must tell Washington if we buy their apples with cotton dollars, they must buy cotton products, and tell other states the same thing about their saleable products. Mr. Stufflebome concluded by saying that when the people of the South wake up to the situation they can and will prevent disaster to the Southern cotton market and the women's duty is to carry the information to the most remote spots of their state and other states. He said that when we become strong enough in this unity we can demand our rights and get them.—Reporter.

Corsicana 4-H Club Boy Makes Unusual Record

A. T. Smith, Jr., member of the Corsicana 4-H Club, had made an outstanding success of his beef cattle feeding project, amassing a net profit of $81.10 in the past two and a half years.

In 1938 he secured his first calf and ended with a net profit of $100 including his premiums after the animal had been sold at the first Corsicana Livestock and Agricultural Show. Since that time he had fed and sold six baby beef calves and 32 common steers, all fed on a commercial basis.

Young Smith is reported to have reinvested his profits in stocker cattle and now has a herd valued in excess of $1200, in addition to four Herefords and one Angus calf which he is feeding for exhibition and sale in the fall.

The work of the boy was highly praised by Assistant County Agent A. P. Bralley, in charge of club work, who added the boy's parents were greatly interested in his projects and aided him in every way possible.

Sunday School Class Meets In Kereus

KERENS, May 28.—(Spl.)—At the home of Mrs. R. D. Mabry, the Builders class of the First Methodist Sunday School met on Thursday for a regular business and social meeting. Mrs. Roy Mayo was joint hostess with Mrs. Mabry.

Mrs. J. B. Coates, class president, presided over the business session, dispensed with reports from the various committees, opened the Sunday apron, and collected birthday offerings.

A beautiful devotional by Mrs. John Holland impressed each member and guest. Basing her thought on the "Reviewing of old Paths," Mrs. Holland read the 6th chapter of Jeremiah, and gave fitting comment in verse.

Two songs by Darrell Mabry were enjoyed during the social hour, while delicious chicken salad, wafers, cookies and iced tea were being served.

ARMING SPEED

Our national rearmament program is sure to have considerable effect on the business situation, when it gets under way, but there are doubts as to how long it will take to feel the stimulus.

"By its nature," says a business expert, "most rearmament activity is long in the preparatory and blueprint stages. Even when it goes into the production, it is not, in most directions, the sort of thing which lends itself to the mass production which characterizes our motor car and steel industries."

"There is another difficulty which must be dealt with realistically if we are to have quick results from the program the President now proposes. It is the fact that American industry is not organized in a manner which permits prompt and easy transition from normal operation to the production of a wide range of war materials."

He recalls how difficult the transition was when we entered the war in 1917, although our energies were then already engaged in production of war materials.

Perhaps we can do better now. Against this pessimism is the statement of a prominent industrialist, that industry is ready to go. It may be particularly true with regard to airplanes and warships, which are most vital now. But obviously there must be many new plants built quickly, if we are to continue supplying the Allies while rearming ourselves.

DESTROYING CRAZINESS

It isn't often, in a time like this when every day brings incredible news and comment, that we find an utterance so colossal as to strike a reader dumb. Such a miracle is wrought by Robert Ley, Nazi labor front leader. He is explaining Adolf Hitler to the world.

Hitler's "God-given natural mission," he says, is "to bring Europe and the world to reason and thereby make Europe and the world happy." Herr Ley continues:

"It is our holy and unconquerable idea. We believe we must destroy madness and craziness, and in place of an ever-warring Europe—therefore a Europe doomed to destruction—replace it with an ordered, reasonable and intelligent Europe."

"We Germans of the present therefore must march as flagbearers of a new and better world, a world of reason and intelligence."

After reading that several times, forward and backward, with the present European situation in mind, the reader may begin to get a kind of sort of glimmer, to this effect—that the Nazis are engaged in a purely benevolent mission, to destroy Europe in order to keep it from being destroyed; and this mission requires humanity, reason and intelligence of the kind demonstrated in Czechoslovakia, Austria, Poland, Norway, Holland, Belgium and France.

The only safe place today—and that's merely comparative—is a church or a hospital.

Suggestion for new national motto: "It Is Later Than You Think."

The alternative to rearmament might be Adolf Hitler's face on our coins.

JUST FOLKS

PRIDE AND HUMILITY
Pride whispered: "Scorn the lesser thing.
See only sun and star
And in the orchids blossoming
Forget what daisies are."
"Strive only for the mountain top
Where bloom and friends are few
At only favored places stop
And only fame pursue."

But Meekness whispered: "Let the proud
In laughter go by.
You laugh your lessons from the crowd,
Learn what it means to sigh."

"Stay close unto the human heart.
Love earth and flower and tree,
Know fame is but a little part
Of all that life must be."

RESCUING TRAVELERS

Americans notoriously like to hang around in dangerous places, to see what is going on. Thus thousands of them have been caught in Europe who haven't really any business there. The luckiest of them are the 7,000 estimated by our government to be in England and Ireland.

Obviously the sooner those Americans get back home, the better for everybody concerned. They make trouble for the British government, and also for the American government.

All of our citizens unnecessarily living in the British Isles have been urged to concentrate in Ireland, from where they will be shipped home as opportunity offers. The "danger zone" blankets the British Isles, but our government has authority to get its nationals through when ships are available. Washington has sent a vessel to the west coast of Ireland for stranded citizens.

MOTHER EUROPE

"While democracy in Europe is fighting in the last ditch," laments Bishop Arthur J. Moore of the Methodist Church, "here in the United States we go on with our golf and bridge." Yes, we do. And no doubt there are many Americans who regard the vast struggle across the Atlantic as none of our business, and harden their hearts, and say: "Well, if the Old World wants to go to hell in a handcart, all right—we'll mind our own business and go our way and keep out of the mess."

There are probably more, though, who while just as eager to "keep out of the mess," do their best to understand what is going on over there. They want to know what are the causes of that great eruption, and what it may lead to, and what the chances are of settling it before the continent from which we have sprung and derived our civilization is wrecked.

We are still bound to Europe by a thousand ties. We should still be grateful for what it has given us and should still try to do what we can, to help our Mother Europe in her distress.

A LANDING PLACE

The present war problem of the Allies is to hold the Germans until enough American planes reach them to turn the tide. Meanwhile there is no harm in Britain making a survey of Ottawa, Can., as a possible site for the British government.

It would be a far cry and a long jump, but there is no nobler spot in the world for an imperial capital, and Britain may land there eventually even if she comes safely through the present crisis.

"You must get accustomed to my silence," the Duke told his people. That is no hardship to the rest of the world, anyway. Now if Hitler, Goebbels and Co. would only follow suit!

"Man, the heir of all the ages, in the foremost files of time," as Tennyson called him, isn't feeling so superior just now.

Blessed is the man who can do his drilling behind a lawn mower, in peace, instead of toting a gun.

MEMORIAL DAY

Detour and Philadelphia plans for the day. In Detroit, Herbert Busse, German submarine commander in the world war and commander of the German veterans' post, said his group had withdrawn from the parade "to avoid any embarrassment to other foreign groups." All but two of the post's 88 members are American citizens and the other two have their first papers toward naturalization.

Tumors of Trouble Philadelphia police were assigned to guard services at Fort Hill, near Fort Washington, Pa. American Legion officials reported they heard that the German-American Bund planned to hold a "special meeting" simultaneously with Memorial Day services.

New York City parades attracted an estimated 75,000 marchers. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt spoke on "peace and the significant challenge of Memorial Day this year" at services in Ferncliff Cemetery, Ardsley, N. Y.

Gov. Arthur H. James of Pennsylvania spoke at Gettysburg battlefield. With most memorial services scheduled in the morning, Americans turned generally to sports in the afternoon. Spectators crowded the Indianapolis Speedway for the annual 500-mile automobile race and baseball parks throughout the country for doubleheaders in major and minor leagues.

"Build-Up" Good News For Suffering Women

Much of women's periodic distress may be unnecessary! Many who suffer from headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain, other symptoms of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by CARDUI.

Main way it helps relieve periodic distress is by increasing appetite and flow of gastric juice. Thus it often aids digestion; helps build strength, energy, resistance to periodic disturbances.

Others find help for periodic discomfort this way: Start a few days before and take CARDUI until "the time" has passed. Women have used CARDUI more than 50 years.

LOST RADIANCE OF RELIGION PRESENT SORROW OF CHURCH *

Glum and Grim Christians Are the World's Present Heretics—The Program of Jesus as Contrasted With the Schemes of Modern Theorists—More Salt and Light Needed.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

I spent last evening reading essays in current highbrow magazines upon the present state of society. I quit, weary of words. The articles were carefully, even brilliantly, written. They abounded in historical allusions, and in the sparkle of epigrams. Some of them were elaborately wrought schemes for social reconstruction. All were above the heads of ordinary readers. And all seemed as unreal as they were wordy; mere literary exercises.

In relief, I turned to the majestic simplicity of the teachings of Jesus which are the heart of this Lesson. Forthright, sturdy, sane, practical, brief and understandable by the common people, they are words of life, words for living. Jesus never soared up into the thin air of metaphysical speculations; nor did He indulge in speculations about forms of government. He kept to the plane of personal living. Without a parable spoke He not into them. The dulllest of His hearers could take back home to his village the clear import of the Master's words. No wonder "the common people heard Him gladly."

Rubbing in the Salt
His friends, said Jesus, were the salt of the earth—the purifying, preserving element, that would save society from rotteness. Diffused among the common life, they would permeate it with wholesomeness and goodness. The savor of the salt would spread, even as the leaven disseminates itself in the meal; and by conscious and unconscious virtue and charm the whole lump would be salted. Christ planned no other propaganda than that of disciples living the new life, telling the Story, and in ways little and great, bearing witness. Every time a Christian restrains his temper, forgives an injury, does a Christlike deed, or speaks a kindly word, he is exercising the function of salt. There are some who look to a new world religious organization, which is now in process of formation, to deliver mankind from godliness.

This generation seems unable to escape from the machine idea. The result is that the Church is carrying a terrific load of organization upon her back. We have too many societies and salaried workers, and have largely lost the zeal of members who serve only because they are constrained by the love of Christ. One all-affair disciple is worth more to the community than half a dozen new organizations. More salty, shining saints are our great need. Phillips Brooks once said that the world is yet to see what God can do with a wholly consecrated man.

The Lost Radiance
Thousands of us still remember an essay by Principal Jack, "The Lost Radiance of the Christian Religion," published several years ago. Christianity has become grim and austere. The outward shining of an inner light has been supplanted by cosmetics. The glow and fervor and peace which are the Spirit's signature are notably lacking from Christian faces. I once attended the Monday morning meeting of Detroit preachers; and a more drab, discouraged lot of men I have never seen. The lack of joy and tranquillity was due in part, of course, to weariness after Sunday's service. (I think the Monday ministers' meeting is an invention of the evil one; the preachers should spend Monday at home.)

The Sunday School Lesson for June 2, is "Testing Conduct by Its Usefulness"—Ezekiel 18: 1-10; Matthew 5: 13-16; 7: 16-20; I Corinthians 16: 8-7.

They only the victory win Who have fought the good fight And have vanquished the demon that tempts us within. —Browning.

There is one evident, indubitable manifestation of the Divinity, and that is the laws of right which are made known to the world through Revelation.—Tolstol.

Kent Bankruptcy Hearing Postponed Until June 14th

DALLAS, May 28.—(AP)—Because auditors for both sides had not completed their work of trying to reach an agreement, the bankruptcy hearing of Garland C. Kent, Corsicana, was again continued until June 14, in a hearing yesterday before E. M. Baker, referee in bankruptcy. Auditors reported some progress in reaching an agreement in the claim of the First National Bank in Corsicana, but said they required more time for their work.

About a half million dollars involved in the bankruptcy with the government and the bank claiming large portions.

L. Wheelock, R. D. Fleming, Milligan Brothers at Streetman, and Louis Cerf at Ennis.

At noon on Friday the members of the association will be guests of Messrs Fred M. Allison and J. N. Edens at the Allison ranch north of Corsicana.

J. N. Edens, Sr., of Corsicana is a member of the board of directors and of the executive committee of the Texas Hereford Breeders' association.

The Great Product
Instead of such intricate, elaborate and impractical theories as were alluded to at the beginning of this article, Jesus uttered simple common sense to which the hearers own judgment readily assented. They understood salt; they understood the lamp on a lamp stand, where it would give light; they understood the figure of a fruit tree. "By their fruits shall ye know them." It was an appeal to the individual personality, and it was practical. Jesus trusted to the changed lives of His friends to change the world.

Several of the writers whom I read last evening implied, or openly declared, that civilization is headed for a complete smash-up. That huge bomb haunts the dreams of many. It can never come to pass so long as there are enough individuals who live by the Christian Way, and govern their lives by God's will. It is true that these have before them a tremendous task of light diffusion. It is going to take a heap of Christian living and working to counteract present conditions, but the friends of Christ are equal to it.

SEVEN SENTENCE SERMONS
Hypocrisy is the homage vice pays to virtue.—La Rochefoucauld.

Some books are to be tasted, others to be swallowed, and some are to be chewed and digested. —Francis Bacon.

Look around the habitable world; how few Know their own good, or knowing it, pursue. —John Dryden.

Ten thousand of the greatest faults in our neighbors are of less consequence to us than one of the smallest in ourselves.—Whately.

The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord; and he delighteth in his way.—Psalm 37:23.

They only the victory win Who have fought the good fight And have vanquished the demon that tempts us within. —Browning.

There is one evident, indubitable manifestation of the Divinity, and that is the laws of right which are made known to the world through Revelation.—Tolstol.

Kent Bankruptcy Hearing Postponed Until June 14th

DALLAS, May 28.—(AP)—Because auditors for both sides had not completed their work of trying to reach an agreement, the bankruptcy hearing of Garland C. Kent, Corsicana, was again continued until June 14, in a hearing yesterday before E. M. Baker, referee in bankruptcy. Auditors reported some progress in reaching an agreement in the claim of the First National Bank in Corsicana, but said they required more time for their work.

About a half million dollars involved in the bankruptcy with the government and the bank claiming large portions.

News of County Home Demonstration Clubs

Stansell Club.
The year-round supply of fresh meats and vegetables for the farm family is assured through the use of freezer lockers. Mrs. Ben Rogers told the Stansell home demonstration club ladies when they met in the home of Mrs. Bruce Gaunt Thursday, May 23 at 2:30 p. m.

A freezer-locker is a "safe deposit" box kept in a room with zero temperature, here the farmer or anyone might keep their surplus of fresh meats, fruits, vegetables, and poultry products. Mrs. Rogers continued as she, assisted by Mrs. Doyle Ivy gave a brief estimation on the cost of a freezer locker plant. First, the products are chilled, wrapped in family size packages to suit the individual; frozen then placed in a locker. Each person has his own key and may go to the locker as it were his refrigerator. A locker may be rented at $10 per year, sometimes two families may rent one locker. A cold storage branch office may be had in a small town if as few as one hundred patrons agree to rent a locker.

During the business hour each member was asked to write out a program they would like to have given in the future, rug making and style show or modeling were among those suggested. The club was led in several games by the recreational leader, then the hostess served pimento-

U. S. lines officials hoped the ship could leave for home tomorrow, a day ahead of schedule, but this was considered unlikely as cargo was placed in the saloons to accommodate extra passengers fleeing from the European war.

Part of the fascist preparations centered on perfecting what spokesmen refer to as the "third line of defense," consisting of an estimated 10,000,000 women and minors would have non-combatant roles in wartime.

An announcement said 27,000 volunteers were being trained to take over various jobs left by men called to arms, 12,000 in special industrial jobs, 3,000 in cheese sandwiches, white cake and grape juice.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Charlie Gaunt June 13th, the agent will be present at that time.—Reporter.

Student Priests Returning Home.

ROME, May 30.—(AP)—The entire student body of the North American College, consisting of 106 student priests, will leave Rome tomorrow morning and return to the United States aboard the liners Manhattan and President Harrison.

Bishop Ralph Hayes, rector of the college, on May 17 cabled to the home bishops of the students advising them of the consular warning to Americans to leave Italy.

RESPONSE IS BEING MADE TO RED CROSS CALL OVER COUNTY

RICE, POWELL AND RICH-LAND SEND IN LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 30.—(AP)—The International Red Cross and the League of Red Cross societies issued a joint appeal today for more than $1,000,000 for refugees swarming into France "in desperate condition."

The appeal was directed to 22 National Red Cross organizations in Europe, Asia and Latin America.

The United States Red Cross, officials said, already was co-operating to the fullest extent.

With conditions growing worse hourly in the beleaguered sections of Europe where food and clothing are scarce and children have been and are daily being driven from their homes into the highways and byways, with only what they can carry with them as all their possessions on this earth, the National Red Cross and the Navarro County chapter and all other local chapters throughout the United States are calling for funds to extend a meager relief to these unfortunate.

The first call for $10,000,000 was found inadequate even as a start and this call has been doubled. The original appeal for Navarro County was placed at $2,460, and after many days of effort on the part of Mrs. R. B. Mitchell, executive secretary of the Navarro county chapter and her women assistants, this quota has barely been half subscribed. A quick response upon the part of those able to give is urged in order that Corsicana and Navarro county may show a merciful attitude towards these sufferers from terrible privations.

The campaign is being continued in Corsicana and at the same time drives are being conducted in various towns and communities of the county, where the response has been fairly good. A total of $1,168.04 had been reported to noon Tuesday, and at noon Wednesday this amount had been increased to $1,415.12.

Mrs. Mitchell, announced that Richland was the community outside of Corsicana to respond to the appeal in the local chapter's campaign to raise its quota of $2,460.00.

In a letter to Mrs. Mitchell from J. W. Richards, assistant cashier of the First National Bank at Richland, key representative of the local chapter in that community, a check for fifty dollars was enclosed with an itemized list of contributors.

The contributions ranging from five cents to two dollars, were collected in one day by Mrs. John Alderman, Jr., Mrs. F. E. Withrow, Jr., and Mrs. F. E. McDaniel, who are to be congratulated on their quick and efficient work.

Powell subscribed $11.45 and Rice reported $2.32. Richland subscribers and funds received from noon Tuesday until noon Wednesday follow:

Dugged resistance of rear guards is protecting the retiring forces and has allowed an orderly backward movement.

The sharp fight of the allies also has blocked the Nazi push on the allied flanks.

Once deciding that the fight in Flanders was lost, the allies opened flood sluices around Dunkerque and let the water into an area criss-crossed by canals and streams to cover their retreat.

Locks were opened southwest and northeast of Dunkerque on the great canal that flows by the city and follows the coast for many miles.

Where Troops Stationed.
The French are defending the region between St. Omer and Cassel while the British are fighting in the general direction of Burges to Dunkerque.

The British also are holding off strong Nazi attacks in the Yser canal regions.

Strong allied defenses were established along a "line of mounds" which rises above the Flanders plain from the vicinity of Cassel to Ypres, a Belgian city which was the center of three huge battles during the World War.

This line separates the Lille region from Dunkerque.

In this zone, allied troops, mostly British, fought off repeated German attacks on both the southwest and northeast areas.

Protected on two sides by flanks toward the sea, the French army under General Rene Jaques Adolphe Prieux were slowly retiring northwest, protected by furious rear guard actions.

All Kinds Vessels Used.
The allies were using naval units "of all tonnages" to remove troops and bring fresh supplies to those still fighting.

Dunkerque was under constant artillery and aerial fire by Nazis hoping to wipe out the remnants of the defeated forces, whose plight became hopeless after the surrender Tuesday of the Belgian army under King Leopold III.

Official communiques gave only a meager picture of the actual scope and ferocity of the fighting attending this operation. Such communique phrases as "struggle of exceptional intensity" and "at the cost of the hardest fighting" were used to describe actions.

The allies were abandoning to the Germans a strip of territory approximately 200 miles long and of an average width of 50 miles, its southern boundary lying along the Somme and Aisne rivers from the channel to a point near the Luxembourg frontier. It includes a rich industrial section and important channel ports.

Hold Triangle Temporarily.
Temporarily they held a triangular area around Dunkerque, in which the entrapped armies were withdrawing. The southern side of the triangle ran inland from a point near Calais to the Lille area, and its eastern side extended roughly northward to a point just south of Ostend.

The French reported that a rear guard was being fought in Lille, important industrial capital of this region, and it appeared that a small allied force was holding the city and its suburbs (The Germans claimed the capture of Lille).

DETAILED REPORT ON YMCA CAMPAIGN GIVEN BY LEADERS

A detailed report on the outcome of the recent membership and maintenance campaign of the YMCA was given by campaign leaders at a meeting of the YMCA board of directors Thursday morning at the association.

It was reported that a total of 466 individuals have pledged the sum of $6,473.25 and that $4,750.50 of this money has already been paid. Officials stated that this figure did not include the 10 per cent of the total amount subscribed which was pledged by the Navarro County Foundation.

Pat H. Ramsey, general secretary, in his report, said that current local bills accumulated over a long period of time and amounting to around $2,000 had been paid. A balance of $1,150 for future renovation work on the association was reported.

A committee was appointed by the board to call on local business firms that have not subscribed to the maintenance campaign and solicit their support.

Consideration of a special report presented by Lynn S. Smith, secretary, and members of the finance committee, was deferred until the next meeting.

Leaders of the campaign attending the meeting and speaking included: W. E. McKinney, L. K. Carraway, Robert Cason and T. L. Carlisle.

SPEEDWAY

Twenty cars remained in the race at this point.

Huge Crowd Expected.
INDIANAPOLIS, May 30.—(AP)—America's largest and most exciting crowd, undaunted by a forecast of possible showers, swarmed to the Indianapolis motor speedway today to watch 33 Intrepid drivers vie for the man and glory which go to the winner of the 25th International 500-mile race.

Thirty-three low-slung, shark-nosed speedsters, tuned to piano wire pitch, were ready for the 10 a. m. (CST) starting bomb to send them roaring around the two-and-a-half mile brick and asphalt track before a crowd expected to range from 125,000 to 140,000.

Walter Shaw, former Indianapolis pilot who won the 1937 and 1939 races, was an outstanding favorite but Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif., was rated his most dangerous rival. Shaw's mount is the same eight-cylinder Italian car he drove to victory at 115.035 miles an hour a year ago.

The drivers battle for $100,000 in prizes, with the triumphant pilot getting $25,000 to $35,000, depending upon the number of laps he leads during the race. The winner of each of the 200 laps collects $100.

Since the first race 33 lives have been lost. Even before qualifying trials began this year, George Bailey of Detroit was burned to death when his speedster crashed into a retaining wall.

GERMANY

On the southern front—along the lower edge of the German salient through northern France to the channel—German tank attack was repulsed on the lower Somme river. South and southwest of Amiens troop concentrations in forests were bombed, according to the daily communiqué.

Many Allied Planes Destroyed
In all, the high command said, 89 allied planes were destroyed yesterday, including the 69 shot down by pursuit and destroy groups. Seventeen were said to have been picked off by anti-aircraft gunners and the remainder of the 89 destroyed on the ground.

The Germans acknowledged that 15 of their own planes were missing.

The fighting around Narvik, in northern Norway port which British and Norwegian forces entered yesterday, was said to be continuing "unabatingly." The German garrison, driven from the town proper, took up mountain positions outside the port and, the Germans said, "are being reinforced."

In connection with the war in Norway, the Germans said, "several planes were destroyed on the ground."

German choppers pushing northward from Trondheim, 400 miles from Narvik, were reported to have taken the town of Edda, and a German submarine was credited with sinking seven allied steamers totaling 38,480 tons apparently off the Norwegian coast.

Bodo is about 165 miles southwest of Narvik.

Meanwhile, the Nazi press hinted that France rather than Great Britain would be the objective of the next German drive.

(A broadcast in German on the Berlin wave-length heard today by CBS proclaimed that "now the German people has started to finish up forever this eternal disturber of its peace"—France.)

The German press, extremely responsive to the official state of mind, has thundered at England, stridently asserting that alleged British night bombings of undefended towns and non-military objectives soon would be punished. It was claimed these bombings were continued last night over western Germany.

But for the last two days the press has shown a sudden and rapidly-increasing resentment toward France. The alleged abuse of the night bombing of undefended towns and non-military objectives was caused some observers to express the belief there would be prompt retaliation in that direction with a drive on Paris, instead of the long-threatened invasion of England, as the next Nazi aim.

HEALTH, BEAUTY AND POISE

By VERONICA DENZEL

FROM THE MAIL BAG

M. R. Writes: I am a young girl in my early twenties. I would like to know what to do about my fingernails. I have been thinking of them very much lately. They seem to be in two layers. My toenails seem to be in two layers. I don't know what could be the reason. I would appreciate it very much if you could help me. Veronica Denzel

The texture of the nails—also the hair—depends upon calcium. Eat more of the foods which contain this vitally important element. Dairy products, fruits and vegetables should be the mainstay of your diet. Sunshine is important too. Frequently, one finds that as Spring comes on, the nails and the hair seem to be in poor condition. This is due, in many cases, to too much time spent indoors in artificial light and heat; then as the summer goes along, the troubles gradually disappear. Without realizing it, you have eaten more of the proper foods and been in the fresh air and sunshine, and the conditions corrected themselves. But don't hope that everything will come out all right—make sure that it does, by planning a constructive program. And your nails will respond beautifully.

And talking about nails, do you realize that it is not the polish that causes the nails to break or peel. When this happens, and providing the above named factors such as eating and internal correctness are taken care of, it is quite likely to be the fault of the nail polish remover. When you stop to consider it, the remover must necessarily be pretty strong stuff when it is able to dissolve the nail lacquer, and of course will prove drying to the nail itself. I have proven this in many instances. I have persuaded many of my friends to leave the polish on their nails, removing it just once in about three or four weeks. You can file the nails a bit to the smooth edges, take care of the cuticle, and through all the processes of a manicure except removing the polish. Then, just put a fresh coat of polish over the old one, or if necessary, actually, at this writing, I have six coats of polish on my nails. One clear, two in a plum color because during the week of my manicure, I wore plum lipstick to match. Then the following week, I had two coats of a clear, beautiful red called South American—again matched to my lipstick; and this week, I am using a dark red combination of one coat, this time, I have been doing this for months, now, as an experiment (I'm always my own guinea pig), and it has worked beautifully. My nails are in excellent condition, and longer than they have ever been. It would seem that the polish lends extra firmness to them, and they just don't break off—even using a typewriter as much as I do. So I lay a lot of blame on the removers—and not on the polish at all. Try this and see if you don't find it so. I should be interested to hear your reactions—but all to whom I have suggested it, have found it a most satisfactory procedure. And please, always have a clear polish on your nails that the nail is never stained with the colored polish.

SUPREME COURT TO REVIEW LITIGATION OVER ANNEXATION

AUSTIN, May 30.—(AP)—The Supreme court today agreed to review litigation in which a group of citizens fought annexation of their property by the city of Gladewater.

A trial court upheld the city's annexation of 365 acres which included property of Mrs. E. L. Walker, W. H. York and Leland Fikes, who alleged the land was unsuitable for city purposes and was annexed only for the purpose of collecting taxes on it.

The owners appealed to the Texas Civil Appeals Court which reversed and rendered the lower court and decreed as invalid the city's annexation ordinance. The city appeal to the supreme court followed.

News of County Home Demonstration Clubs

Barry Club.

Rugs are the keynote of home decoration, Mrs. Ruby Livingston and Mrs. Bruce Watson, brought out in a discussion to the Barry Home Demonstration club, at the school building on Thursday.

No two hooked rugs are ever exactly alike even when the same design is used. Mrs. Ruby Livingston said that being the case, the making of hooked rugs offers a real opportunity for the expression of beauty, colors and proportion.

The amateur should select simple designs and learn all the steps before undertaking the more difficult patterns. The foundation for hooked rugs should be heavy, close woven burlap, or round bale cotton bagging. In placing the designs be careful to keep the straight edge of pattern in line with the weave of the foundation material. At least three or four inches should be left as a margin beyond the rug pattern as this will enable the worker to fasten the rug securely into the frame with out breaking that part which is needed to form the finished rug.

Mrs. Bruce Watson, brought out in her discussion some pleasing color combinations and the making of home made dyes. Many dyes can be made from plants and trees that are grown about the home. Allow can be made from the stems, leaves and flowers of St. John's wort, or can be made from walnut, hickory, yellow oak and Lombardy poplar barks. Onion skins produce a dull yellow. Other colors can be produced by combining two or more colors.

The hostesses, Mrs. Leone Reed, Mrs. Lawrence Woodruff and Miss Louise Jones served a refreshment plate to one visitor, Mrs. Joe Vorsham and nineteen members. The next meeting will be Thursday, June 6th at the school building.

Pickett Club.

Outlook for Farm Family Living for 1940 was presented by the president, Mrs. Kyle Stokes, assisted by several other members of the Pickett Home Demonstration Club in the home of Mrs. Otis McLaughlin, May 27.

Mrs. Stokes pointed out that difficulties and uncertainties for the year of 1940 should not lessen the number of families making farm-and-home management plans. Farm families with well planned year round supplies of food can have better diets than their city neighbors, because many of the protective foods, such as milk, eggs and green leafy vegetables can be furnished. Also by carefully planned production, many farm families now enjoy those foods which they might not be able to afford if they lived solely in a money economy. Canning preservation of foods have been greatly stimulated in the past few years by educational agencies. An increasing number of families own pressure cookers necessary for canning most vegetables and all meats. Although farm families produce much of the food they consume nevertheless the latest share of every dollar spent for living goes for the food they purchase. Efficient buying is a major phase of the job of managing family funds, and well balanced plans for family living should provide or fusing some resources for recreational and social activities, such as club membership or a radio, and for education of all family members.

The hostess, assisted by Mrs. Gene Caskey served brick ice cream with angel food cake to ten members and one visitor, Mrs. Cora Almon.

The next meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Sam Nagy, June 10.—Reporter.

PENDERGAST FREED BY UNITED STATES TO LEAD CLEAN LIFE

KANSAS CITY, May 30.—(P)—The United States frees Tom Pendergast, erstwhile Kansas City democratic machine boss, to lead a "clean, upright, temperate life" this Memorial Day but the state expects to arrest him quickly on a bribery charge.

Pendergast completed a year and a day behind bars at 9:25 a. m. He was sentenced to 15 months in Leavenworth U. S. prison on his plea of guilty to evading income taxes on $443,500 but got off for good behavior.

He was brought here for a recital of Federal Judge Merrill E. Otis' conditions for the five-year probation under which he gains freedom.

Pendergast is barred from "any participation, direct or indirect" in "political activities of any kind or character" and prohibited from entering 1908 Main Street. It was from his office at 1908 Main that he helped elect U. S. Senators, governors, state supreme court judges and other officials ranging to constable and justice of the peace.

Pendergast is barred from "any place where gambling is permitted." Maurice M. Milligan who, as U. S. district attorney, prosecuted "Boss Tom" told the court he bet

$2,000,000 on race horses in 1935 alone and lost $600,000 of it. Pendergast is under orders to live a "clean, upright life" and conduct an honorable, reputable and lawful private business.

He must try to raise, before April 15, 1941, the remaining $125,000 the government says he still owes in taxes and penalties. The original figure was $707,000 but was compromised at $350,000. Part of that and a $10,000 fine were paid during his imprisonment.

Immediately after hearing his probation, Pendergast is to be released to Missouri officers. He is charged by the state with paying a $62,500 bribe to R. Emmett O'Malley, then state insurance superintendent, to compromise a $5,500,000 fire insurance rate case. Under terms of the 1935 settlement, insurance companies received 80 per cent of impounded premiums and policyholders got 20 per cent.

O'Malley, who served a prison term for evading income taxes on $62,500, is charged with accepting that sum as a bribe.

Slek and Convallescent. Mrs. S. E. Kiser is a medical patient at the P. and S. Hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Parker, Route 5, Corsicana, at the P. and S. Hospital Wednesday night.

Mrs. Aurelia Barley underwent an operation at the P. and S. Hospital Tuesday.

Miss Gertrude Carden was removed to her home from the P. and S. Hospital Thursday.

INTERNATIONAL

(Continued From Page One) In encounters with "many large formations of enemy aircraft engaged in bombing operations" on the French and Belgian coasts. Only on British planes, the air ministry said, were missing. British military circles also insisted that the B.E.F. still held its main base depots in Flanders. The German high command said the B.E.F. was in "full dissolution," forsaking enormous quantities of war material in its flight to the sea.

The wholesale destruction of troop transports and protecting naval craft centered at the flame-ravaged French channel port of Dunkerque—now the lone sea exit left to an estimated 300,000 to 500,000 French and British soldiers fleeing the German trap in Flanders—and at Ostend, Nazi-held port in Belgium.

Berlin reported that detachments of French soldiers caught in the German "squeeze" south of Lille had surrendered. Other French divisions and the British expeditionary force, battered and weary but putting up a stubborn rearward fight, fell back to the English channel under constant strafing by planes and savage flank attacks.

The Nazis insist that even if the retreating allies reach the coast, escape has been cut off by terrific artillery and air bombardment of the port of Dunkerque.

Except for the perilous final chapter of the allies' escape to the sea, the bloody battle of Flanders—first great land operation of the war—was over.

In withdrawing their battered northern armies the allies have yielded, for the moment at least, a 10,000-square-mile strip comprising all of France north of the Somme and Aisne rivers and the small segment of Belgium which still remained unconquered until the surprise surrender of 300,000 Belgian troops by King Leopold III two days ago.

The retreating allies, pocketed in a triangle-shaped area, lying between Calais, Lille and Ostend, engaged in "terrific fighting" on the Yser and near Cassel, the French high command reported this morning.

On the north, south and east the Germans pressed in closer and closer for the kill; above them Nazi machine-gunning and dive bombing planes kept up an incessant din; ahead of them lay the English channel, spotted by German submarines and Adolf Hitler's mosquito fleet of torpedo boats, ready to cut loose with torpedoes at allied rescue vessels.

Flanders Battle Rages Throughout last night the battle raged across the tragic fields. The allies added floods to the scenes of death and desolation by opening sluice gates of canals surrounding Dunkerque—a last resort to stem the Nazi tide.

A lone French division fought desperately to hold off the Germans on the northeast; suicide squads held out on the east and south.

Some Belgian units, refusing to obey the order of King Leopold III to surrender Tuesday, fought on alongside the British and French.

At the start of the northern campaign the allies had some 500,000 troops in the fray; how many will be able to come out alive the British and French themselves would not guess.

Nineteen days after unleashing his blitz forces in the west, Adolf Hitler had brought into his control: Virtually all of France's rich Northern industrial region and the French northwest coast, jumping off place for a frontal assault on Britain; All of Belgium; All of the Netherlands, which gave up after five days.

May Take Paris Next. Berlin speculated that the Nazis would direct their attack next in a push toward Paris—not England.

At sea, German submarines were on the loose again after a period of comparative quiet, sinking two vessels in the Atlantic off the Spanish coast within 24 hours.

Among them was the 3,425-ton Argentine merchantman Uruguay, the first vessels flying the flag of an American republic to fall victim to the war at sea. The other was a French freighter.

On the diplomatic front, Soviet Russia administered a stiff bluff to Britain by tagging a

Mrs. Burleson Is Given 12 Years In Murder Case

COLUMBUS, S. C., May 30.—(P)—Judge G. Duncan Bellinger sentenced Mrs. May Walker Burleson of Galveston, Texas, to 12 years in the penitentiary today.

She was convicted of manslaughter in connection with the slaying of the second wife of her divorced husband, Col. Richard C. Burleson, of the U. S. army.

The judge said in passing sentence, he would have given the 51-year-old defendant the maximum of 30 years permissible under the verdict if the jury had not recommended mercy.

"If the jury had not recommended mercy in this case, I would have given her the limit."

This was an assassination," Bellinger said of the slaying, in which Mrs. Burleson shot Mrs. Isabel Knowlton Burleson in the back as she sat in a hotel cafeteria March 8.

Mrs. Burleson gave no sign of emotion as she heard the sentence pronounced.

Bellinger termed the shooting "a sordid case" and asserted: "The laws of this state shall be respected by those in the higher walks of life x x x as well as those of the common estate," otherwise there would "never" be "any respect for life."

Defense attorneys withdrew the motion for a new trial, which had delayed sentencing since the verdict was rendered Tuesday night.

Chief defense attorney Claud N. Sapp said immediately after the sentencing that "we will not appeal" to the supreme court.
